To Dustin's parents his family and friends I am truly heartbroken over what happened to Dustin and I am in disbelief I worked with Dustin and him and I became good friends him and I would joke every day when we were at work and it just kept us going through the day all the other workers would wonder why were laughing all the time, it was just funny jokes that we would tell each other personal jokes in between us. I nicknamed Dustin ( T.A) and when he asked me what it was he laughed really hard but he knew that joke behind it, Dustin had a sense of humor like nobody else that I ever met he could be really really serious or he could be really really silly but that's what made Dustin, Dustin was a good man good person a good friend had a good co-worker Dustin was given his wings too early he would tell me what he wanted to accomplish and other things that he had on a list so someday (T.A) when I get my wings you and I can sit there and laugh the whole day long so to the parents the family and friends may God be with you and I am sending special for all of you and to Dustin may God watch you over you for internity. Friends and family of Dustin Schmidt. I was on the road for work the other day and was thinking about Dustin and reminiscing about old times and literally had to pull over to write this. As I was thinking about him, a song comes on the radio, One In A Million by Trixter. I haven't heard it in years. This goes way back to junior high when he and I and Travis Downs had our band and we went to a Trixter concert (one of his favorites back then) at the Zoo Amp in Okc & he threw one of his famous "Dustin head bands" up on stage. The lead guitarist picked it up and wore it all night. Months later, Dustin shows me their new poster that comes out (posters were big back then!) and sure enough the guy is wearing the exact same head band on the poster! He was extremely excited! This song "One In A Million" was one of his favorites and he was all the time grilling us to learn it and he would sing it. There is a man upstairs and I think Dustin just gave me one more "hey buddy"! He was "one in a million". Just wanted to share...RIP my friend.
